

PhD Day 2019

Thursday, 4th July 2019

Europäische Akademie Otzenhausen

09:00 Poster Session

Christoph Aurnhammer (Project A1):

Cloze ≠ N400? Teasing apart the effects of word association and cloze probability on the N400

Pratik Bhandari (Project A4):

Prediction in comprehension of noise-vocoded speech: A pilot study

Anupama Chingacham (Project A4):

Exploring paraphrasing for better language comprehension in noisy channels

Koel Dutta Chowdhury (Project B6):

Effect of Translationese on Machine Translation performance

Michael A. Hedderich (Project B4):

Learning in Low-Resource Settings with Automatically Annotated Noisy Data

Gerrit Hölting (Project A6):

Semantic Surprisal and Memory Encoding

Muqing Li (Project C3):

"Mit Käse Bretzel": Pre- and post- nominal overspecification in referential communication

Julia Meßmer (Project A6):

New Conceptual Knowledge and the Learning of Compound Words

Marjolein van Os (Project A4):

Language Comprehension in a Noisy Channel

Katrin Ortmann (Project C6):

Automatic Identification of Orality

Iliana Simova (Project B5):

A Self-training Approach to Data Augmentation for Event Extraction

Fangzhou Zhai (Project A3):

Story Generation with Script Knowledge

10:30 Coffee break

11:00 Talks

Klára Jágrová (Project C4):

Reading Polish with Czech Eyes: Distance and Surprisal in quantitative, Qualitative and Error Analyses of Intelligibility

PhD Day 2019

Thursday, 4th July 2019

Europäische Akademie Otzenhausen

Pauline Krielke (Project B1):

Diachronic development of relative clauses in scientific writing

Lisa Schäfer (Project B3):

VP ellipsis and redundancy: Can Information Theory explain the use of VP Ellipsis?

Sophia Voigtmann (Project C6):

Extraposition in German – A (surprising?) phenomenon

Julia Wichlacz (Project A7):

How to Build a House in Minecraft